Dear Miss Gilpin:

I am very much upset to learn that the receipt of your dummy was not acknowledged, although we certainly would have wired you if it had not been received.

The delays on all publications this Fall have been heartbreaking, and from the looks of things will be even worse next year.

The plate maker is etching the first sheet today. As soon as we have some imprints, we will shoot them on to you. I hope to have the book printed by the end of the week and we may possibly be able to bind it in another four or five days, which brings the whole job dangerously close to Christmas.

We are keeping right after everybody and will get copy at the earliest possible moment.

Incidentally, the Indian designs are a splendid idea and will help the book immeasurably.

Cordially yours,

HASTINGS HOUSE
