Dear Miss Gilpin:

We are doing everything in our power to get the books out before Christmas, and believe we will be able to get some to you and to some of the Colorado and Santa Fe stores.

However, I believe it would perhaps be better to postpone the actual publication until some time in January. This would not prevent the stores from selling the books before Christmas but would give us a chance to publicize the book next month.

I am glad you liked the sheets. I am sure that you will like the completed book when it arrives.

We are greatly upset about the delays, but under these troubled conditions, we can't seem to enforce schedules.

Cordially yours,

HASTINGS HOUSE
