Nell, ... what a beautiful day this was, I am so grateful for the atmosphere you provide, this very rare and special kind of peace and understanding you make me feel, whenever I seeyou... even if I only think of you, this feeling of you comes over me and I bless the day when you crossed my path.
I have the lilac next to my bed and the white violets stand before me on the desk and it is as if your being were captured in their beauty.. isn't it strange to know that , counted in actual meetings there were not more than a few, on actual facts I know little about you and yet.. I know you, your basic self, the intangibal but so important real self of you I can feel... you discribing your dance in the moonlight, you reading Rilke making it over in a way because you understand so well what he meant, you in your tender way touching a flower... your strong tie to all good things on earth... o, what a gift to know you...

I pray for sunshine ... and you,to have time to go out and take some C. U. of blossoms, life can be good... and it was YOU who made me feel it to-day so deeply,
thank you Nell,

Erica.
