Words

Sometimes they are flashing fish
Racing with the tide
Swirling sequins in their wake,
Bubbles breaking in a shower
Silvering the shore.

Other days, they're percherons
Plodding, heavy, dull;
Clumsy peasants stumbling -
Patience in their fettered steps -
Round the rutted fields.

Sydney Eddison