

January 5th

My darling,

I have done it all - the whole month of December - accounts + loans, inventory and balance sheet - XMas - New Year - and be seem to have survived December. Two long week-ends, for which I had luxuriously planned to talk to Mather proved to be more hectic than an ordinary work week and each day I felt more miserable not having written to you. There is so much to say, so much to share, but you must know how my thoughts are always with you and Mario, who is now so much part of us. Manuel Villalaz has come back. We talked, and talked, about you - and Mario and the miracle of life. I am glad he is back, but I am just delighted that he first saw you and Mario. Now he too knows who you are and what divine guidance was bestowed on Mario.

Friday: Darling - This goes to you with the packet. This week-end I shall write to you. It should be Calaveras how that the holiday crowd has left. Bless you - bless you. T.
