Book darling.

I'm not writing you just because Sunday is Mother's Day. Quite White for that reason too but my real reason is to tell you that I love very very much the silly book bear I have for a mother. Some children have mothers who are efficient, clever, smart, beautiful, understanding or fifty million other qualities but my mother is much better than that. She's Mummy Bear that I love rolled into a silly book. You know Probably am not very affectionate or demonstrative most of the time - You never get the idea that upon occasion I look disapprovingly in your direction - That is never true - Always in my heart Mummy, their is nothing but love for you - Just never never forget that -

Bobs.

Mother