

August 8, 1920

Neil dearest,

How thoughtful of you to have Pamela write, though I am distressed to learn that you've not been too well.
Hurry and get BETTER, and come to Corgi Cottage again.

Oh, how we did love having you and Pamela !!!!!!!

Nothing made me happier than to know your dear feet have crossed the threshold. And we simply love Pamela.

Here are some Poppy
Seeds for you, just scatter them in your garden

and come Spring they will be up. You must trim them—though, quite rigorously.

The photographs and the two books are delights—I do thank you. But the loveliest gift of all was having you and Pamela come.

Please thank Pamela for her two letters.

Do hurry and get well for your birthday.

Just endless love.

Tasha