

Be still

Drawn by the soft, sweet pull of spring, she stands at the window in a quiet, intimate moment of wordless worship. The Creator is very, very near and she represents how we should come to Him... "as a child."

Light spills in on the sill and across the wall, casting the shadows of 3 crosses. Yet another symbol of the Trinity is seen in the purity of the 3 white dogwood blossoms. The tree has survived the long cold winter. Its nest and precious contents are a further reminder of the season's rebirth. The jaunty chickadee perched on the sill is the little girl's friend, for in the world of the child, everything belongs, nothing is small or insignificant. Perhaps she can teach us something as she stands at her window, absorbed in wonder.

Christmas 1986

Dearest Dorn:

May the real beauty of Christmas be with you this year and many more to come. Never you forget that I Keep you in my prayer every night!
I never forget you and the needs you desire.... God loves you very, very much.
I love you dearest friend!

Be still and know that I am God.
Psalm 46:10

What a beautiful Psalm above —

Sincerely,
Friend Shadrach
