The moon was riding high to-night.....
The sea was at her greatest height.
A white ship strained against her piles
Cabled to a wooden fear!

Morning with its empty tide
Found her stranded... on her side.
Have pity on this ship, Oh sea!
Come and take her out with thee!

Blessed winds and Tides - there be
To break her ropes and set her free!
To fill her sails and let her ride....
A star and dipper for a guide!
