then you have a jealous wife John and a jealous wife is the last thing in the world I want to be. That is why the Pitter perspective to see again the dream in our hearts - and only that - and to start with fresh inspiration. Perhaps if I take a week of Robinwood's solitude and peace - I can bring it home to you - or better still, you will come to get it. Surely - some way - we will find it together as we always have -

ONE THOUSAND AND FORTY PARK AVENUE

My own precious one - I'm going away for this Pitter week - it is like a painter steps back from his canvass to get a perspective on his picture.
Then he sees where it needs a Pitter more here - and a Pitter less there - to make it conform to the dream in his heart. This is the real picture.
And with us, too, darling, it

Life Beautiful if he has fear in his heart - or confusion?
It is like sea-sickness of the mind - not that we either one of us have it - but sometimes we do. forgive me darling. I love you - trust you - honour you with all my heart - and if I sometimes beat my small fists against you it is because I think the world is rocking so and I want to pull you back into our world of peace. I hate the forces that pull you continually

2. is the dream in our hearts that is the real picture. Sometimes when we work too close - the colours get smeared - or our eyes get color-blind - or our fingers cramp - we get discouraged - think we have lost the likeness entirely - know that we can't begin all over again with a fresh canvass - we lose our heads, get panicky (?) - are afraid - and how can one ever live the
