

4 believe — and go after what I think I could do. If only the days were longer or there were not quite so many interesting things I want to do.

But any way I want you to know that something you said — or maybe it was your kind eyes ~~that~~ — anyway it has helped me to walk right up to the big lion and not be scared by his roar.

I'm sorry Rosalind will not be down — I had hoped to know her. My thanks to you and my very best good wishes — nice J. D.

Thanks!

Nice John Doe and for his very kind letter. And thank you for the calendar too when it comes. No, silly, it is not an imposition — the calendar I mean. I like moments of enthusiasm.
May you always keep them and me too!

I can imagine what a beautiful Roman Senator you were — but I'm mad at that party because it hurried you back to N. Y.! — However I am thankful even for those few days.

Virginia is at one side of the dining table doing her children's pages for the Gondolier (she is Jr. editor if you please!) -

Betty is giving Barbara a dancing lesson in the living room -

Tommy has gone to the Committee of 100 — so you have an account of our evening.

I am full of ideas and some of them working nicely — got an advertising account to-day that begins a new line. Your little talks encouraged me more than you know to I'm glad if you like the picture — and I know it is honored by the very special frame. More thanks.

You are nice!

It is off duck-hunting down the Key — with the duck-hunters — remember? Alas I fear that these moonlight nights have done for her. You know what madness is hers. I'm afraid I shall have to nurse a broken something or other — but then aren't we always breaking something?
