Dear Mrs. Wang:

Mrs. Wilder of Ginn and Company, Lexington, Massachusetts, is interested in using two photographs taken by our client, Nell Dorr, in the publication of a book for first graders.

Mrs. Wilder wrote Nell Dorr that you have informed her that you have exclusive rights to the publication of these pictures that appear in "The Big, Big World".

There may of course be some misunderstanding, but Nell Dorr does not remember giving you the exclusive right to publish the two pictures and believes she can deliver the photographs to Ginn and Company without payment to you.

Would you write us what your position is? Do you claim an exclusive right in all the pictures in "The Big, Big World" or is it limited to a few? Any documentation you can give us will be helpful in advising our client.

Very truly yours,

F. B. D. T + S.
