February 26, 1940

Dear Mr. Gingrich:

I am happy that we are to come out in Coronet. I feel this is where we belong more than in Esquire, though I acknowledge the beauty of those big reproductions.

Thank you for your personal interest and your hovering over the reproductions. It makes a great difference. I wonder if anything beautiful ever comes without it; certainly not with me.

About the release: No model ever cares to have her name used so I have made it a practice to get my release from them and then I take the responsibility of the release to you.

Up until now I have merely given Mr. Smart my word which seemed satisfactory to him, but since you want the release I have had my lawyer redraw it so that it comes from me rather than from the model. This one release covers everything that I have given you for reproduction and my name stands back of it.

I am sure this is even more satisfactory to you and does give consideration to girls who are not professional models and have no desire in any way to be publicized.

Thanking you for your cooperation,

Cordially

Mr. Arnold Gingrich
Esquire Magazine
Chicago, Ill.