Dear Photographer,

We have been faced with some unexpected delay in concluding our publishing agreement and as a result we are running behind our projected production schedule.

Because of the nature of the delay, we have been focusing all of our attention on working with a Swiss publishing house on the preparation of a 32-page dummy containing the work of several photographers. Once we have the dummy in hand, we should be able to come to an agreement with the publisher and proceed to finalization of the book.

Your work is still being held for final selection, but as we have too wide a choice of photographs from you, we have edited that choice down and enclose herewith those which will not appear in the book.

We are sorry for the delay, but we are certain you will all agree when the book comes out that the extra time and effort invested in the project has been worthwhile.

With best wishes and our thanks for your continued cooperation.
