Dear Mr. Berenson, in the cool spring sunshine of Paris I am still under the spell of Florence! How much of this is due to her own charms and how much to your Recollections, I could not say - only that the combination makes them doubly precious.

I left at your door a copy of my small volume of photographs: Mother and Child. I would like to know that it reached your hands. We travel about for the next few months, but my home address in New York is: 30 East 37th. Street. A letter there will always reach me.

It must give you satisfaction to know the infinite reach of your words, to repay you for the infinite labour of shaping them to fit your thoughts.

I wish you good health to write more and more recollections. Believe me,

Sincerely,

Neil Dorr
