Dear Nell

Your letter has filled me with joy - coming so unexpectedly & on New Year's Eve many February mornings - I just after a rather sad birthday - I don't know why I - somehow I feel neglected by girls & boys? - Now I feel of some of the South's warm of your Florida beaches. has particled me - Only - I am sad that you two have been through some difficult & painful times. It - so profoundly time when you say - that being to learn to accept - so hard that it - surely the secret of triumph over suffering - (I tried to put my poor broken heart to rest it - in the big north longer he has had - before you had to be good -

of course will have told you (perhaps) I don't in the end. point of time recognized the truth of it but no power in him - still kindly and.)
- There least - as an in the way to bring it - myself I don't - I had to be the mother I had when my daughter was ill. (Thank God - she is well again now - fully well) I don't I have started a little girl again here. Lady for a baby, boy - in a body Thomas with a girl. - I am just trying to learn to accept - as when to remember what I have already learnt - as this - just of my to be my first weeks (in your country, I don't he has written to you). Learning to accept here - I might write to tell you about to please I don't like being put where. but I think it has to be -

I found my legs would not have tended for. Lady back to my country of 1954. I see that I disappointed.

Now on July 16 I hope to get the letter to let you (I hope) I. Middleton or to George St. - tell me if my don't turn up still. I'll send some more. I have lots of copies. - I have some more in my head now - I hope my youngest son, a dear one. I am planning a religious one. He seems to be out in Italy. I am really for a B. B. C. Competition. For see I have to write something.

Oh I do do hope for you & will get to England again in year. I am planning a rather visit to Banbury & Evesham - with my dear eldest son & his wife & the grandson who is just a boy. I think so often of you Book - and heartily. Only days I have had the happiness to see you my life. And of course. Blessings - my love. Bridget. I hope your husband will soon get well.
