Dear Dr. Dorr:

It was most thoughtful and generous of you to write me as you did about my short talk at the dinner the other evening; & especially so to have sent me the beautiful book "Mother & Child" by your wife.

The book confirms an opinion I have held that although camera & brush may look different & are obviously different, yet in the hands of an artist — no matter what name he may call himself, or herself — they can perform the same function at the creative level: that of artistic communication.

I have not forgotten that I promised you a copy of my talk. It is being prepared.

Please have a happy Christmas.

Sincerely yours,

Harold G. Cassidy
