My dear Byron:

Thank you very much for the clipping. We had already seen it but I am glad to have this additional copy and appreciate your kind wish for our welfare.

Knowing you to be a family man, I am sending you under separate cover a book by my wife, together with an invoice for it and enclose herewith comments on it from many sources, as well as a little story of her which I think you will enjoy.

Besides that I am enclosing some material on a highway safety measure that has interested us.

The United States Information Agency has asked for 150 copies of the book to start with, for distribution abroad, which the Foundation has given them. We are experimenting with its distribution and I have sent one hospital several copies to be sold on consignment as I think it would be peculiarly useful with the new mothers.

Mrs. Dorr recently had two separate women tell her the book had changed their life and attitude toward their children and husbands.

If I get over Boston way, which I hope to do, I would love to see you. I don't suppose you get to New York often.

Kindest regards.

Sincerely,

Enclosures
