Dear Kay:

Thank you very much for what you, your progeny and your dear mother did for my and my great-grandson during the last few days.

We drove carefully up to the dividing line between Westport and New York, telephone and went to Westport where I was able to do something I had been trying to do for sometime and then drove back to New York where I met several people.

Under separate cover I am sending you a copy of Nell's book, inscribed to you, and will get the other books as soon as I get back from Westport Point where I hope to go tomorrow morning. I foresee that you and I plus any others that we see fit should take a jaunt or two this Fall.

Love,

JOHN V. N. DORR
