Dear Dr. Dorr,

Thank you so much for sending me the information about Mrs. Dorr's book, and the copy of her letter to Mary Margaret McBride. I have since had an opportunity to browse through the book at Miss Burch's delightful book shop in Darien - I couldn't have chosen a more pleasant place in which to browse, and the book is quite enchanting. I know it is a volume which I shall take pleasure in giving to several of my friends.

I was so glad to read in the New York Times last week that your very efficacious white line had at last been properly recognised, and I hope it will become universally compulsory. So many people I know have remarked on it from travelling those sections of the Parkway on which it has been used - and I have been very proud to be able to say that I was acquainted with the imaginative and practical mind that conceived it.

Sincerely,

Marjorie Dell
