Dear Mrs. Dorr:

Once in a blue moon a sober technician gets a windfall of such a fastidious character. Thank you for it and the delightful message it contains, which reflects the charm of its creator.

We here just make up, in those moon-lit caverns, the impersonal, perishable medium, but you give it life -- radiant, heavenly and eternal life.

Your book is indeed fascinating in every detail and I hope that you will not forget the little boys.

With best personal regards to yourself and Dr. Dorr,

Very sincerely yours,

L. Eckler

Dr. LE/m

P.S. I hope that Dr. Dorr honors the Binghamton Section of the American Chemical Society with another lecture. It might give me an opportunity to learn something about how to obtain such wonderful high-key pictures.
