Dear Mrs. Lodge:

I had hoped to see you at the Shakespeare get-together last Sunday so I shall mail this instead.

Your daughter, Lilly, came in to tea with us before the meeting. What a dear girl she is--and talented and beautiful as well. I get such an ache over young daughters, knowing only now just how much they mean.

These are my daughters and my children's children and I like to feel that you know them too.

With all good wishes to you and your husband,

Sincerely,

Nell Dorr
