A Woman

The Sea keeps pounding away at the shore - over and over. A new moon asks the same question ~~ever~~ ~~until it is full.~~ The MOON again and again The winds keep whispering what the rains repeat and old mother earth just listens.

The moon is an answer to a woman the same as the Sea - but a woman must listen a long time - before she begins to sing.