To the Society Editor,
The Evening Star,
Washington,
D. C.

Dear Madam:

In accordance with your suggestion to Dr. Mary Dabney Davis in a recent telephone conversation that a brief notice be sent for publication in the social column of Monday's Star, I hereby submit the following with the hope that it meets requirements; however, please make whatever changes may be found necessary.

Miss Clara E. Sipprell, pictorial artist, who has her studio in New York City was the guest during the past week, of Mrs. Edward Walton, 1869 Mintwood Place Northwest.

Miss Sipprell came to Washington to make pictures of what she considers the world's most beautiful city, and some of her loveliest studies were made at night. She also did a few portraits of interesting persons.

Mrs. Ward Brown and Dr. Mary Dabney Davis gave invitation exhibition teas for this artist, who will return to Washington in April, to discover and capture the ever new Springtime beauties of the Nation's Capital.

John Jay Daly of your staff interviewed Miss Sipprell and wrote a fine story about her, which unfortunately, because of lack of space was somewhat abbreviated, however, it is likely the paper will want, later to reproduce one or two of her studies of Washington.

Very truly yours,

Gregory Dexter.

Mrs. Halstead Logan.

...is that they are forced to call home." Their children are suffering from malnutrition from lack of milk, which the head of the house is unable to purchase. They are subsisting on meager orders for surplus foods and from help which they are able to get from neighbors, in many instances in little better circumstances than themselves.
