on Dec 5th*

Dear Dr. Porter;

I owe you an explanation of what has happened to your transparencies that you sent us in October. A request for funds to make color separations was initiated, but hasn't been heard from since. Apparently the higher authorities will OK this only when they have the manuscript in hand, which I hope will be at the beginning, or at least the end of the coming summer.

Dr. Jack Cross, Editor of Publications, and I thought we would wait to see how the request for funds fared, before returning the pictures to you, knowing that should you need them for the National Geographic, we could mail them immediately.

Shall we continue to hang on to them (in an ice box) until you call for certain ones needed by the National Geographic, etc., or do you want us to return the whole bunch and ask for them again when it is time to make the separations?

I hope we aren't inconveniencing you in any way -- needless to say, we certainly appreciate your wonderful help.

Very sincerely yours,

Joe Marshall
