Dear Mr. Porter,

Enclosed is a copy of the editorial that came up in conversation at Eliot and Jane's home the other evening. There is nothing very special about it, but writing such a piece now and then is therapeutic indeed. Having enjoyed your books so much, I am pleased to send you even so small a thing as this.

Judy and I enjoyed meeting you very much and hope to see you again on some future pass through the Mississippi Valley flyway. Perhaps you could look into a "float trip" on a "john boat" on the Ozark Rivers. I haven't done it yet, but it is considered the specialty of this area. With regards from

David Bowes
