BILL CLAIRE

Dear Mr. Porter,

We are absolutely delighted with the way "Bird In Flight" came out on our cover, and I hope you are too.

Ben Belitt, who was here for a luncheon of Congress reading, tells me of his great joy in being featured in an issue which also has something by you.

Please let me know if you would like more copies, or if there is anything further I should do. I assume the photograph should be returned to the people who sent it to us — Sierra Club. Is that right? It was somewhat confusing at the time it arrived.

Of course I should also tell you that the pages of VOYAGES will be also open to you ^{anytime}. It would be a magnificent center spread if we could carry some of your photos someday. You belong with the poets —
Always,
Bill Claire

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

The photograph of the arctic tern by Eliot Porter appeared in Summer Island, first published by the Sierra Club.

"Signatures: Notes on the Author's Drawings" and one drawing appeared in Thomas Merton, Raids On The Unspeakable. Copyright 1966 by the Abbey of Gethsemani, Inc. Reprinted by permission of New Directions Publishing Corporation.

Grateful thanks to Mark Van Doren for the Note and poem on Thomas Merton, which first appeared in The Autobiography of Mark Van Doren, N.Y. Harcourt, Brace and Company, 1958; and to Howard Nemerov and The New Leader for a fragment of his Ben Belitt review, which appeared in Vol. XLVII, June 22, 1964.
