

C. V. SEASTONE

6 March 74

3414 CIRCLE CLOSE, MADISON, WISCONSIN 53705

Dear Eliot:-

I ran across these negatives dated 1931 and thought you might enjoy the prints. Doesn't it look as though the Professor and Hugh Ward are having a confrontation? I remember one of the few times I opened my trap, followed the pronouncements from the Professor that immorality always hurt someone, and I said - how about cheating at solitaire? (Not good)

Those were the days - I think the sensation of nostalgia starts with the menopause and peaks at senility. I have been following your work with the greatest admiration. Absolutely marvelous. I remember a very Early Porter of a heron in flight which could have been called a white speckled blue heron. I still have my Luca. I brought it in for repairs and someone wanted to buy it for his collection.

Hope this reaches you between expeditions.
Am tracing you through one of your publishers.

Best wishes.

Vic

I am sending John E. the same.