Dear Eliot:

Your letter arrived while Anne and I were in Europe, in large part on FOE business, and I am a little slow getting around to it, as you suspected I would be.

You wrote : "I have been hoping that you would soon be able to get around to" sending back the two original albums. In my defense, what I wrote you on August 9 was: "What do you wish done with them?". . . I await hearing from you."

So you see I am innocent.

I also wrote "I await seeing you" and I am getting tired of not. Anne and I should hop into our Toyota one of these days and pop on down. It has been far too long! And we need to bring a book or two down for your signature.

As ever,

Waver

star-stained.*
