Yes, dear Eliot,
I believe we will have a book. A very nice book. After I mailed a letter to you yesterday, I found a package notice in my mailbox.
I assumed it was a pain reliever, which I had ordered. It was a pain-reliever, but not what I had ^{my} ordered.
It was a great surprise. You must have sent it after our conversation.
I have not had time to study it carefully, but I have to write you at once, that it arrived. There are quite a few pictures, that I had completely forgotten, because there were no prints and they were not in the B. collection.
I like the size, because it is handy.
I must go to work and can't write more.

Thanks, for every thing
Much love B.
