Dear Eliot,

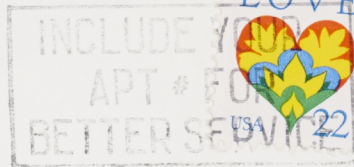

The prints came late yesterday and I sent them off this morning. Thank you very much for having them made. The pink Lady is refreshingly pale. The seated Christ is not in the book, but I believe you have no matrices for the one in the book. I numbered all the prints according to my battered "list of contents" booklet. But I gave them no titles. The prints are nice, but they cannot reach the glow of some of the ones made by the master colorprinter of U. S. A. Yes, my standards are high and in this case it was you doing. I cherish the ones I have, battered or not.

Your book can be seen everywhere but I have desisted to look into it carefully, because I want to wait 'til I get a copy and can sit down with it at my leisure. It looks very lovely. The Tffi book seems not yet "out". How did the day in the bookstore go?

To you and Scheinbaum + Russek the best of luck for the exhibition. To you also very many good thoughts and wishes for your birthday and much love

Ellen
