

Bella, EF, and Samuel

I actually framed those myself - a longer piece than I had anticipated, but satisfying. Anyway, we are enjoying them, and it made a great gift.
Hoping you and Aline had a very money Christmas and wishing you a happy and satisfying New Year.

Dear Grandpa Porter:

A short note to wish you happy holidays and to thank you for the generous check for Samuel's account.

We spent Christmas in Portsmouth with Bebo and Jane and E.F.'s siblings. Samuel had a great time performing, smiling, flirting for all of them, and now he must make clo with just an audience of his two boring parents! Bebo certainly seemed to enjoy Sam. He could have sat there for hours just holding on to him. He is going to be a very fun grandfather, particularly on a place like Great Spruce Head, for Sam - full of ideas, stories, projects.

E.F. is the librarian for the orchestra in addition to his capacity as bass player. Sam is in graduate school, earning my MBA, and working on a research project as an assistant to a professor. Taking care of Samuel and being a student requires some organization.

Bebo let us choose two of your photographs. We picked "Cuilapan Oaxaca" and the purple-shroud covered crucifix, which are now hanging in our apartment, along with your prints which you gave us as a wedding present.
