Re: Stuart and Scott Gentling

Dear Mr. Kuralt:

I should start by saying that I am a loyal and avid viewer of your excellent television show, "CBS Sunday Morning", and a good friend of Gordon William Peterson, CBS news anchor in this area (Channel 9).

I am writing you to bring to your attention the background, provenance and manifold accomplishments of two twin artists, Stuart and Scott Gentling, residents of Fort Worth, Texas, and good friends of my daughter, Ms. Nicole M. Holland.

I mention Nicky's name because she is very much involved in the art scene at Fort Worth, having been an associate curator at the Kimbell Museum and is presently involved with the activities of "intercultura", engaging in the arrangements for and mounting of exhibitions of art.

The enclosed article from the Dallas Morning News outlines careers of and describes better than I can the Gentlings. Not only is their art of pluperfect accomplishment but the scope of their ideas and the presentation of them is truly staggering. Not the least of their recent accomplishments was the identification and resale of one of the earliest of John James Audubon's series of paintings of the birds of America. This is all covered in the article, to repeat, better than I can outline it.

We would all hope very much that you might consider the Gentling brothers for presentation on your excellent program in the (usual?) art section. Their address in Fort Worth is 4801 Harley Avenue, Fort Worth, Texas 76107.

If there is any further information that I can supply, or Nicky can, please let me know at your convenience. I think that you will find the Gentling saga to be very worthy of inclusion in your weekly documentary of "life in America"!

Thank you so much for your kind attention, Mr. Kuralt.

Very sincerely yours,

J. P. Murphy, M.D.
