Dear Stuart,

Just a note to tell you again how pleased I am with the mockingbird and how very much Larry and I enjoyed the visit with you. We both had a terrific time and wish that we might have stayed awhile longer. It's probably just as well that you and I don't live in any closer proximity; we'd never get anything accomplished. As expected, you made a hell of a (favorable) impression on Larry. On the trip home (Friday afternoon) he confessed to having stayed up late the night before reading that DMN magazine article you gave him. Heck, he even believed it! We were both fascinated with your knowledge of the Aztec culture. Larry is the type who never bats an eye when you spring words like phantasmagorical on him, and his curiosity is endless. Like yours.

And that mockingbird sings to me. Thanks from the bottom of my heart.

Sincerely,
