

The University of Georgia

Department of Geography

Franklin College of Arts and Sciences

Room 204, GGS Building
Athens, Georgia 30602 USA
(404) 542-2856

October 10, 1991

Messrs. Scott & Stuart Gentling
4801 Harley Ave.
Fort Worth, TX 76107

Gentlemen:

While in Boston attending the North American Print Society meeting recently, it was my good fortune to meet a gentleman from Austin who was familiar with your work.

He mentioned that you were currently working on a project that was in some way connected with the so - called Cortes Map of Mexico City - Tenochtitlàn, which was printed in Germany in 1524 with the conqueror's second letter to Emperor Charles V.

I too am interested in the map from the perspective of the history of cartography. It may interest you to know that I forwarded the argument that the original map from which the 1524 print was prepared was of American Indian authorship in my presentation to the Print Society.

I would appreciate learning more about your own project and will be pleased to hear from you.

Sincerely,

Louis De Vorsey, Jr.
Professor Emeritus