Dear Ralph:

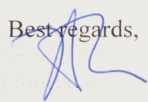

I haven't heard from you about the books we have talked about and don't know if I dropped the ball or not. Let me know if I need to do anything.

I would like to ask the Gentlings to consider two thoughts: first, would be an additional portrait involving my family. They have done more than one already and I would like to see if they are willing to do another. I am building, at my home, a portrait gallery which will be large and I think beautiful. I intend to put all their works in this gallery and would like to get an additional one.

Second, as another idea, I have long thought about a project involving a portraiture of my whole family, not my immediate family, but extended family, probably ten figures in detail, another ten in less detail and another ten or so in yet less detail, old and young, all in a scene together. Would a project like that have any interest to the Gentlings? I realize it would be a huge undertaking but one that holds my interests.

I hope you are doing well, and I look forward to hearing from you.

Best regards,

Harlan Crow
