Dear Stuart:

Thank you for your letter of yesterday.

Very well, then. I'll start work on my story on you, Scott and your art and try for an interview in a month or two. I'd appreciate it if you would give me some idea of when it will be possible for me to interview you. I enclose a postcard for your response.

If Scott doesn't want to be interviewed, then I can interview you alone. I note that as an interviewer I take up less space than a gaggle of television crews. And I am quieter and have better manners.

Aloha!
