

to be seen.

As in the hopes that they ~~extreme~~ scholars, much esteemed by ~~both~~ ^{us} and me, might return to the program, ~~we~~ ^{Scott and I} have decided to withdraw the ~~archaeological material~~ ~~and~~ pre-Columbian art from the exhibition. In doing so, however, I would like explain to them and future scholars what Scott and I are and what we are about, at the risk of embarrassing

Although it might prove embarrassing to ~~you~~ ^{him}, ~~Scott~~ ^{Scott}, I ~~would like~~ believe that it is necessary to point out that Scott and I were asked by ~~him~~ ^{her} to show our project at the Biddy Molly Center and that we did not obey for the exhibit. In fact we were reluctant to do so because we have not finished or even started many of the paintings ^{of the type you would} that we intend to create. We ~~decided~~ ^{at last} to show because a small museum venue would give us an opportunity adjust the exhibit to see what works and what doesn't. And showing the show with you would be our way of paying you back for all your help over the years.

I really should have anticipated this attitude and should have seen it coming
