Dear Stuart

I hope some of my fellow travellers have been quicker off the mark to thank you for a most enjoyable and special evening with you in Fort Worth. (My excuse is a nasty coldy virus which caught me along with the jet-lag and has kept me out of action for 10 days or so: however a bit of enforced rest after a busy year has been very beneficial!).

Anne told me your home would be a surprise and it was. It seemed like a sort of jewel box, with so many of yours and Scott's meticulous and original paintings and other treasures. Plus the artist's eye view of Fort Worth, the President and other topical issues was of great interest. Thank you and your friends so much for entertaining us.

I think everyone was very impressed with what Texas had to offer and we were really overwhelmed with the warm welcome we had everywhere. Back in the cold grey UK, these are memories to relish.

At the end of the tour we gave a copy of your book to Joe, the driver, who was delighted with it. He was quite enchanted by your Birds.

With best regards

Frances Roxburgh
