Dear Scott:

We greatly appreciate your recent donation to the Mimir Chamber Music Festival at TCU. Now in its eighth season, the festival has grown dramatically, bringing to campus some of the most talented performing artists in the world. The festival has also sparked remarkable development in more than 100 aspiring young musicians who have attended as participants over the past eight years.

Mimir has helped to raise awareness of the TCU School of Music in the Metroplex through its acclaimed performances. In recent seasons it has been cited in both the Fort Worth Star-Telegram and the Dallas Morning News as a "Top 10 Musical Event of the Year," and this year a record four out of five performances were reviewed in the DMN. Excerpts from 2005 include:

- "... Year after year, Texas Christian University's Mimir Chamber Music Festival is one of the most worthwhile events on Fort Worth's musical calendar...."—FWST
- "Touches of grace at TCU—Mimir festival [is] swathed in style and skill...."—DMN
- "... There was no shortage of elegance... and a better-balanced, better-blended foursome would be hard to come by...."—DMN
- "... Once again, Texas Christian University's PepsiCo Recital Hall resounded to some very impressive playing...."—DMN
