The book you sent me and Margaret on Caillebotte is just wonderful. It really lays out the life of that man, as well as his art and his works. We and especially interested in him because we have that good picture which you all made us feel extra good about & your praises of it and of him.

But I believe, and Mary believes that Stuart and you are superior to him.
And we have many more

Gentlings than of any other masters - in fact more Gentling Masters than all the others. And I do not say this flippantly; some day Gentling will be one of the best known names in America, and your your work highly sought after. We hope indeed that we may be fortunate to have more.

Next time you all are here, lets cross the street and see those wonderful portraits of the black couple.
They'll hang in the National or the Metropolitan some day.

6 July Best love to you both
