

24 October 1998

Dear Ted,

When we last met at our gallery to discuss the possibility of our showing our Aztec Project and art collection at the Kimball sometime in 1998, you asked Scott and me if we could find out just when the new Concert Hall was going to open in 1998.

I asked Ed Bass about this the other day, and he assured me that the Hall has a firm opening date of February 1998 and that it is already scheduling events and concert dates based on the February completion date. Just thought you would like to know.

By the way, Scott and I will be lecturing at the Kimball December 9th. I have titled the lecture "Behind the Mask of Power." Since it is an Artists' Eye lecture, I will only briefly discuss the Aztecs and then will focus on our recent progress with the Aztec Project. I will have slides of our recent models, paintings and our pre-colombian art collection - all of which would be part of our 1998 Kimball exhibit. If you have any questions, please give me a call.

Scott
