GICLEE PRINTS

In the last ten years or so digital technology has become so highly developed that artists are now able to reproduce their watercolors and oils with an incredible fidelity never before thought possible. "Giclee" is a french word meaning "sprayed". The reproductions of Gentling watercolors are literally watercolors themselves! Such world famous luminaries in the modern art world as Jasper Johns and David Hockney are publishing Giclee prints of their work.

The Gentling prints are, with some exceptions, issued in very small editions that are strictly controlled. Each print is signed and numbered by the artists. When properly framed (UV resistant glass is suggested) these remarkable prints are indistinguishable from the Gentlings' original paintings.
