Dear Stuart:

I keep thinking that I'll hear from you as to how Scott liked the separations. Was there a problem?

I do want to let you know that Color Separations Incorporated has increased their price by $12,537.30 for the additional work in making the reflective transparencies. Naturally, you must decide whether you wish to go with the reflective method. They will be, if you should decide on them, billing you directly as the work is done. This means that you should take this draft of a letter I am enclosing and write to Joe Bell at CSI authorizing them to proceed with the reflectives. They will need also credit references to accompany the letter.

This letter is also a reminder that $35,000, was due when the separations work began back on February 26, 1985. I appreciate that you are having to borrow a great sum of money to publish your book, but I, also, am in debt because of it and getting further now that I have purchased the larger letter press. It would be very agreeable to see your check for the amount due in my stack of bills that arrive nearly every day.

I have tried calling you about all of these details, but I am unable to reach you. I imagine you and Scott are isolating yourselves in order to concentrate on your work. This I can understand. I often wish my phone didn't work at all.

Here's hoping to hear from you very soon.

Sincerely,

David Holman
