Dear Craig,

I am sorry to be late with this letter, but I have been so busy making deliveries of the bird book that I have not had the time to sit down and write. I can not express how impressed everyone has been with the work that you have done. The beauty of the portfolios and the box has been a great selling aid for us, and not a day passes that I do not get compliments about your work. I might add a personal note here by saying that working with you has been one of the few pleasant experiences of this entire, exhausting project. To show my appreciation for the quality of your craftsmanship and punctuality of your performance, I would like to release any and all liens that I might still have on your machinery. Our book, OF BIRDS AND TEXAS, will not be the last of our publishing projects, so Scott and I hope to be working with you on our next book. By that time we will probably have to stand in line, because it should not be long before other publishers know about you and beat a path to your door.

Again, I wish to thank you for everything that you have done for us. There is no doubt in my mind that our book will be successful and very well known by people in this country who care about good books and quality craftsmanship. That success will come about in great measure by the fact that you and your able staff have contributed so many of your ideas and skillful craftsmanship in making our project so outstanding.

Sincerely yours,

Stuart Gentling
