

29 December 1987

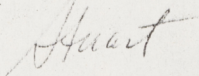

Dear David,

Enclosed is my check for $550.00 which will pay for the necessary additional paper for the second prospectus page correction. I would appreciate it if you could give me some idea when the two corrected pages will be complete for me to mail out. Since this prospectus is going to be sent to many of the most important libraries and institutions in this country and abroad, it will be an opportunity to get Holman work before the eyes of the most discerning collectors. There simply must not be any errors in spelling, grammar or typography or the prospectus will not be of any use. In fact it would damage my chance to sell a book.

Please show the new proofs to your proof-reading friend, David Kent to see if the corrections which he suggested for the first page have been carried out. And please have him check the spacings and hyphenations of the bird names for the second page, and in fact proof this page also. I will gladly pay him for his time.

David, this new prospectus is entirely in your hands, and I am counting on you to help me produce the best product possible. If you have any questions, you can most easily reach me at home in the mornings or call my office (817 - 332 7059) and leave a message with my answering service.

Best wishes,

PS If possible, please let me see the final proofs before they are printed.
