Dear Stuart:

Thank you so much for your letter and for the confidence that you have expressed in my ability to produce a good article for the Quarterly on your book. I know you will find it hard to believe but I have been working on it all along and have found it somewhat difficult to write. Difficult for two reasons. First, this is not my area of expertise, and, second, your book is such a prodigious effort that I am trying to write something that will do it justice. At any rate I hope to finish it shortly and will put it in the next available issue of the Quarterly, which probably will be January or April.

I really appreciate your sending me the additional publicity materials because I have found it very profitable to be able to quote from them.

I hope that the sales have gone well and certainly look forward to your participation in the North American Print Conference.

Best wishes.

Sincerely yours,

Ron Tyler
Director
