Dear Mr. Gentling:

Your large packet of material pertaining to OF BIRDS AND TEXAS engrossed me at once, and I've spent the days since its arrival quite immersed in it. I'm tremendously excited about the prospect of working with you to find the right publisher to reach the general audience your work deserves.

My mental gears are already engaged, but before my strategic scheming progresses much further I'd like to talk with you about all your hopes and expectations for the book in its next edition. Will you call me at your convenience?

I'm most grateful to Peter for steering you in my direction. I'm looking forward to making your acquaintance by telephone.

Very truly yours,
