

Of Birds and Texas

SYMPOSIUM
SATURDAY, APRIL 25, 1987
9:30 A.M.
AUDITORIUM
FORT WORTH MUSEUM OF SCIENCE AND HISTORY

Advance registration required

In association with its current exhibition, Of Birds and Texas, the Museum will offer a symposium featuring guest speakers Scott and Stuart Gentling, and Warren Pulich, Associate Professor of Biology at the University of Dallas, and author of The Birds of Tarrant County.

The Of Birds and Texas exhibition features the complete set of forty dry-brush watercolor bird paintings by Scott and Stuart Gentling, a selection of signed, hand-colored prints by the late Rex Brasher, and mounted specimens from the Museum's research collection, as well as specimens from the Dallas Museum of Natural History.

Admission to this interpretive symposium is free, but seating is limited. Registrations are presently being accepted for members of the Museum Associates Program, with open registration beginning April 17.

FOR RESERVATIONS, CALL THE MUSEUM SCHOOL OFFICE AT
