Dear Stuart:

I spoke with Shannon Davies again about an upcoming meeting. October 1st or 13th will be a better day for us all to be able to meet. Are you available for either date? If so - since you are coming the furthest distance what time of day is most convenient for you?

Shannon is very excited at the prospect of assisting with your book. She said that of course it would be impossible to have it done as soon as the Spring of 99 - she thought that the Fall of 99 was a possibility but that actual printing was even more likely in the Spring of 2000. This is because she believed it would have to be printed overseas unless there were substantial funds to support the costs of publishing it here. She said that one of the first thing that she would need to know is what the physical specifications of the paintings are and other related matters, ie, how many, are there color coded transparencies, etc.. She offered to make a preliminary estimate of costs once she has this information available.

She also mentioned that John Graves has the rights to his introduction. She thought he would be pleased to have his work in the new publication. She also needs to find out if the essay is on disk. She offered to contact him to find this information out. She has worked with him before.

If this is okay with you I will ask her to go ahead. I also thought it might be nice to see if he could join us in October as well - if this is convenient for him. What are your thoughts?

I also would like to know if you feel okay about doing the invitation for us for the 100th - I know you have other projects pending and I do not want to

Shannon

Dear Sharon:

I spoke with Shannon Gentry again about an upcoming meeting, October 1, or 12, will be a better day for us all to be able to meet. Are you available for either date? If so, since you are coming the furthest distance what time of day is most convenient for you?

Shannon is very excited at the prospect of assisting with your book. She said that of course it would be impossible to have it done as soon as the spring of 93 - she thought that the fall of 93 was a possibility but that would be a very exacting task. In the spring of 2000 - this is because she has a lot of work to do in the field. She said that one of the first things that she would need to know is what the physical specifications of the paintings are and other related matters. Is there many, are there color coded transparencies, etc. She offered to make a preliminary estimate of costs once she has this information available.

She also mentioned that John Gray has the rights to his illustration. She thought he would be pleased to have his work in the new publication. She also needs to find out if the essay is on disk. She offered to contact him to find this information out. She has worked with him before.

Well - if this is convenient for you, what new if you are okay about doing the invitation for us for projects pending and I do not want to
